I love using words to make products better. I love taking a voice, and applying it consistently across channels and platforms, working closely with designers and developers. And I love using my background in psychology to write things that are effective, as well as creative.

You can read more of my writing on Medium, and in Creative Review. Thanks for taking the time.

But don't take my word for it
